Kumaon Literary Festival is the first travelling literary festival of the country which brings together creative minds to offer insights on matters relevant to the literature and our cultural life as a nation. Founded in the year 2014, the not-for-profit festival has held many successful editions attended by hundreds of literary luminaries and thinkers from around the world. The earlier editions of KLF were held at Te Aroha, Dhanachuli, in Nainital, and in Jim Corbett National Park.

Founded by Sumant Batra, an eminent lawyer and cultural champion, KLF is conceptualised as an institution with an eco-system comprising of initiatives, projects and activities that are not limited or confined to the festival. The key projects that are part of KLF's eco-system are: Fellows of Nature; Women Unlimited Series; and Literary Bhagidari. The institutionalised approach to the festival is aimed at maximising impact and optimise on resources to help identify hidden talent, open avenues and opportunities for writers and increase their access through translations and other means to a larger audience. This also ensures there are measurable and tangible outcomes of the festival.

The management of KLF was taken over by the Indian Cinema Heritage Foundation in the year 2021.

INDIAN CINEMA HERITAGE FOUNDATION

Indian Cinema Heritage Foundation is a public charitable trust registered in Goa, under the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, to document the history of Indian cinema, set up an archive, libraries, research and resource centers, and other cultural spaces.

The Foundation undertakes preservation, restoration and conservation of cinema memorabilia, artefacts, equipment, books, magazines and other material.

Another key objective of the Foundation is to disseminate and promote the work of the Trust, its activities and products through seminars, conferences, festivals, exhibitions, videos, audios and other mediums; and carry out activities with respect to films, art, music, theatre and cultural events.

Indian Cinema Heritage Foundation is registered under Section 12AA and 80G of the Income Tax Act, 1961.

Founded by the Government of Goa in 2004, the Entertainment Society of Goa, known as ESG was the 1st Government event and entertainment agency of the State. ESG was started with one focused, single idea in mind to bring the best of events, film festivals and creative minds of the vibrant entertainment industry from all over the globe at one place, on one platform and to make the State of Goa a hub of this industry.

ESG became the nodal agency to organize and execute the International Film Festival of India (IFFI) on behalf of Government of Goa. The festival is a joint collaboration between the Government of Goa and Government of India. ESG has been successfully executing this festival from 2004 since the year of its establishment.

Over the years, this organization, either on its own or thorough collaborations has also hosted various National and International Film Festivals. It has executed events for both private and Government bodies. It also provides permissions for film shooting across the State of Goa on behalf of the Government of Goa.

ESG has made efforts to conduct educational lectures and courses that benefit creative minds and has a Cinephile Film Club for film enthusiasts. Additionally, the ESG in the year 2019 collaborated and signed a MOU with the Goa Collage of Art, a Government of Goa institute to inculcate and involve students in the main stream through its activities and events. ESG through its various attempts provides a platform to all interested, in the field of Art, Culture, literature, Film, Entertainment and Events to showcase their talents and creativity with a new perspective.

Our Mission, Spirit, Values and Behaviours are what separate us from other Societies.

They are the strengths that underpin our entire approach to responsible, ethical business conduct. These attributes are exactly what makes the Entertainment Society of Goa a great organization to work for and to do business with.

FOUNDER'S DESK

It was in 2014 that I presented the idea of Kumaon Literary Festival to the world of literature. An idea of a passionate festival that looked beyond the conventional event based approach. A festival based on a considered vision, with an annual plan to it, which strived for tangible outcomes and optimisation of resources, required impact assessment and was open to objective criticism and accountability. Yet, it being not a mission or a crusade. At its core was to be celebration of literature.

We could see the green shoots emerging at the end of the first season of the festival held in 2015. The unprecedented support KLF received, motivated the team to work harder on our various initiatives. It grew organically, supported by the literary community. We are a country with a young and aspiring population. It is the responsibility of the adults of the society to guide them. Therefore, we strive hard at KLF to stay approachable and mentor them.

The second edition of KLF was bigger in design. Our focus, however, remained on quality than quantity. This offered challenges of mobilising financial support. We, however, held our ground, avoided commercial temptations and continued to navigate our way through pitfalls. Operating on a minimal budget, we worked hard to curate a memorable three days of festivity and bonhomie. Yet, not all that we offered was perfect. There were mammoth restrictions and logistical constraints in organising a festival of this scale in a village that is part of an eco-sensitive area. We stayed respectful towards the restrictions and observed applicable guidelines.

I am humbled by the success of KLF and deeply moved by the affection and overwhelming warmth with which you have welcomed me into the world of literature. It has been a great experience working with such illustrious luminaries.

We took yet another leap of faith and decided to travel to Goa and make it our home, together with the Indian Cinema Heritage Foundation. Goa forms a perfect backdrop for KLF!

I hope you enjoy this edition of Kumaon Literary Festival brought to you by us with utmost sincerity, passion and love for literature and cinema!

ESG DESK

It is indeed a matter of pride for the ESG to collaborate with Indian Cinema Heritage Foundation to bring forth the Kumaon Literary Festival's Goa edition.

ESG has been collaborating with various Government and private entities like the Directorate of Film Festivals, Serendipity etc. to host events in the State of Goa. However, this is the first time that ESG is collaborating with an organisation to host a literary event. Most importantly, with the Kumaon Literary Festival, ESG will finally be able to enter the world of literature festivals.

The festival will be hosted at one of the most important heritage structures in the State of Goa, i.e. the Old GMC campus located at Panaji. This heritage structure was part of the palaces of the Maquinezes in Panjim which was built in the year 1702 by two brothers Diago da Costa de Ataide e Tieve and Cristovam da Costa. Nearly 150 years later, it was established as Escola Medica – Cirurgica de Nova Goa by the Portuguese i.e. the Goa Medical College (GMC) and Hospital. The establishment of Escola Medica-Cirurgica de Nova Goaput Goa on the world map. Currently this is the office premises of the Entertainment Society of Goa, the festival Secretariat for the prestigious International Film Festival of India (IFFI) and is the perfect space for hosting Art, Culture and Entertainment events. Located in the heart of Panjim city, across the serene Mandovi river, the Old GMC is an architectural delight making it an unparalleled venue for the Literature Festival.

The festival will have eminent speakers like Dr. Bibek Debroy, Chairman, Prime Minister's Economic Advisory Council, Dr. K. K. Muhammed. Jerry Pinto, Vikram Sampath, Hindol Sengupta, Rahul Rawail, Dhritiman Chaterji, Anant Vijay, Vijay Jha, Venita Coelho, Kiran Manral, Siddhartha Gigoo, Gautam Chintamani, Shantanu Ray Chaudhuri, Koral Dasgupta etc. It is indeed a great opportunity for the people of Goa and the literary community to gain insights on matters relating to people, art, culture, history and entertainment.

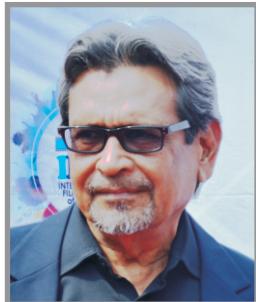

Entertainment Society of Goa and Indian Cinema Heritage Foundation look forward to providing you an amazing experience of the world of literature through "The Kumaon Literary Festival, Goa edition 2022" in the heart of the capital city of State of Goa, Panaji.

Barun Chanda

Actor and Writer

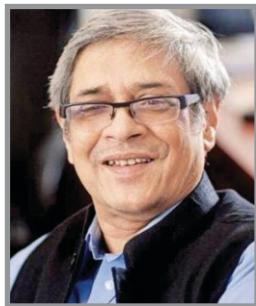

There have been three enduring passions in Barun's life advertising - acting and writing, and not necessarily in that order. With a Master's degree in English from Jadavpur University, Kolkata, he embarked upon a career in advertising that spanned more than three decades, winning him numerous accolades and awards as a Creative Director.

Acting happened in his career as a happy accident. Chosen by Satyajit Ray to play the protagonist in the film Seemabaddha, Barun came up with an inspiring performance as a high-flying executive that won him a special President's Award for acting. After a hiatus of nearly two decades, he returned to acting and has since tackled challenging roles in both Bollywood and Tollywood with equal aplomb, distinguishing himself in films as Lootera, Roy, Chotushkone, Mishor Rohoshya, Bela Sheshe and Chorabali.

The third passion in Barun's life has been writing. At one time a regular film reviewer, and contributor of feature articles in major dailies, he has so far published four highly acclaimed novels in Bengali. His work has played a major role in establishing the adult thriller genre in Bengali literature. While the first two novels in English, Coke and Murder in the Monastery, are crime stories, Satyajit Ray :The Man Who Knew Too Much would be his first non- fiction book in English.

K K Muhammed

Archeologist and Historian

Shri Muhammed K.K., retired from the Archaeological Survey of India as Regional Director (North) in 2012, is known for his enlightened and broad views on some of the issues for which he was felicitated by no less a person than Dr Subhramanya Swami. He was awarded INDIA HARMONY AWARD 2014" by Dr Najima Heptulla for working closely with various religious groups.

During his distinguished carrier he excavated IBADAT KHANA (the hall of interreligious discussions) where Akbar, the Great promulgated the composite religion, known as Din-e-Ilahi. He also located and excavated the first CHRISTIAN CHURCH of North India built by Akbar at Fatehpur Sikri.

As superintending Archaeologist in Bihar (1998-2000), Shri Muhammed, discovered a new BUDDHIST STUPA at Rajgir and excavated KESARIYA STUPA where LORD BUDDHA had handed over his begging bowl to the people of Vaishali.

He conserved Samlur temple at Dante wada in Jagdalpur (Chattisgarh) working with NAXAL group of the area in 2003. Shri Muhammed, reconstructed EIGHTY TEMPLES at CHAMBAL VALLEY with the help of the DREADED Dacoits of the area. It is considered as a milestone in the field of conservation (2004-2008).

Of the four TRANSPLANTATIONS so far executed in India, Shri Muhammed has the distinction of heading two of them, namely KURDI MAHADEV temple in Goa (1994-1997) and CHAUBIS AVATAR TEMPLE temple at OMKARESHWAR in Madhya Pradesh (2004-2007).

Naturally due to his excellent track record, the Archaeological Survey of India deemed it fit to entrust him the conservation work of Delhi monuments on the occasion of COMMON WEALTH – 2010.

In Delhi Shri Muhammed attracted the attention of AMERICAN PRESIDENT BARRACK OBAMA by running SLUM SCHOOLS for the labourers working in the monuments for its conservation.

He was honored with India's fourth highest civilian honor Padma Shri in 2019 by the Hon'ble President of India, Shri Ram Nath Kovind.

For his excellent work, Shri Muhammed has to his credit three International Awards, seven National Awards and one State Award. The details are as given below

Sanjay Hegde

Senior Advocate

Sanjay Hegde, the reputed Senior Advocate at the Supreme by his own admission is a "... history buff with a sense of humour & rumour. Militant secularist. Good food, good friends & good times make my day. Retweets are not endorsements."

His twitter feed apart, few people know that Sanjay got selected by the UPSC for a non-IAS service, which he kept on hold for a couple of years, while he started out in the Supreme Court with the then Attorney General G.Ramaswamy who was his guru in court-craft.

As a debater and a quizzier growing up, clearly a quiet life behind a desk in a solicitor's firm (that's what corporate law was called then), did not appeal to Sanjay. It had to be courtrooms or nothing.

During this period he worked on several high profile cases, appeared for the Government of India before an international arbitral tribunal and from 1996 to 2004 was on the Union of India's arguing panel before the Supreme Court. He also worked for a decade as the Advocate on Record for the State of Karnataka and thereafter focused on private practice.

He has frequently engaged in legal journalism including appearing on high-profile television panels, and writing as a columnist for newspapers such as The Hindu, India Today and Outlook.

Today, Sanjay has become the voice for civil rights, sometimes going against the "popular" grain. He believes, a democracy without a dissenter in it is impossible. Free men, in the exercise of free thought, will give vent in free speech. No matter how abhorrent the thought, or its manner of expression, a mature democracy will tolerate it, and even encourage its publication. It is better for an imperfect thought to be voiced, and rejected in the marketplace of ideas, than for it to fester within the warehouses of inexpressible thought. After all there is no greater idea of democracy than free men, freely and voluntarily, committing to the requirements of citizenship of a free country.

“Only totalitarian regimes suppress dissent and dissidents. Only a country not yet rid of its colonial hangover of a government that commands and controls, labels dissent as seditious. A truly free nation will confidently view even its advocated destruction as a bad idea that will fail in the marketplace of ideas,” he says.

Savia Viegas

Writer

Savia Viegas is an Indian academic and writer living in Carmona, South Goa. Both her parents hail from Carmona of a family of old Zonkar lineage. It is the intricate tapestry of their small secluded and fading world that is a major preoccupation in her novels – Tales from the Attic and In the Hour of Eclipse. In many ways this microcosm reflects the larger problems of Goan society caught in the throes of modernisation.

Savia Viegas did her schooling at St Pius X Convent, Orlim and her college education at Shrimatibai Parvatibai Chowgule College, Margao. Subsequently, she moved to Mumbai and graduated from Elphinstone College.

She worked for the Times of India group for a number of years before moving to a flexi-time arrangement as researcher with the Research Centre for Women's Studies, SNDT University, Mumbai.

After a short stint at Xavier Institute of Communications, she opted for teaching Indian Art History at a college affiliated to the University of Mumbai where she continued until 2005.

In 2005, Savia returned to her ancestral home in Goa where she devotes her time to writing, painting and managing a pre-primary school, Saxtti Kids, in the backyard of her old home.

She shares her home with five dogs, a cat, a mongoose that inhabits a hole in the roof, and of course, the family.

Book LaunchTijara Mystery Codes by Hemma Myers Sood

This book by Hemma Myers Sood is an intriguing combination of clairvoyance interwoven with three timelines that are set apart by millennia, yet inextricably linked by an ancient secret of the mystical Amritha.

The first timeline depicts the historical Kurukshetra battle where cousins fought ruthlessly for their ancestral kingdom. The ancestors of Tijara, King Susharma sided with the Kauravas and fought against the mighty Pandavas. King Susharma deceptively led Arjuna away from the battlefield. The Kauravas created the dreaded Chakra Vyuhand, deceitfully trapped Arjuna's son, Abhimanyu and brutally killed him; breaking all the battlefield laws and morals.

Do these actions have consequences millennia later when one of King Susharma's descendants displays a similarly callous mindset at the Tijara fort palace in December 1977, the year being the third timeline and forms the main storyline?

Between the two, the second timeline elucidates on Rao Raja Balwant Singh's lifestyle. He was continually threatened by his elder stepbrother who was keen to usurp all his wealth and property. The construction of the majestic fort palace at Tijara stopped abruptly by the tragic death of Rao Raja Balwant Singh in 1848.

The book will be launched by Pallavi Dempo followed by Hemma Myers Sood being in conversation with Meenakshi Sharma.

11.50 am - 12.35 pm

A Walk Down The Memory LaneK.K. Muhammed: The Man of Monuments, Churches and Temples

He discovered Akbar's Ibadat Khana (hall of inter-religious discussions), a Christian chapel and a Mughal Bazaar at Fatehpur Sikri, and restored 80 out of over 200 temples in the 1,300-year-old Bateshwar Temple Complex in Madhya Pradesh after some hard negotiation with the dreaded dacoits of the Chambal Valley and the mining mafia.

In this conversation with Sumant Batra, Padma Shri awardee K.K. Muhammed recalls interesting anecdotes and the exciting journey of his archaeological discoveries and his struggles.

राजा मोमो और पीली बुलबुल - गोवा के जीवन पर केन्द्रित हिन्दी उपन्यास by Vikas Kumar Jha

This Hindi novel by Vikas Kumar Jha is centred around life in Goa. Published by Rajkamal Publishers, the book will be launched at the festival.

Following the launch of the book. Vikas Kumar Jha will be in conversation with Naz Farha.

वर्ष 2011 में मैं पहली बार गोवा गया था। इसी पहली यात्रा में मैं महान कार्टूनिस्ट स्व. मारियो मिरांडा से मिला। बातचीत के दौरान जब मैंने उन्हें बताया कि मैं हिन्दी में उपन्यास लिखता हूँ, तो उन्होंने कहा कि, तुम हिन्दी में गोवा पर उपन्यास क्यों नहीं लिखते?

उन्होंने मुझसे कहा कि, हिन्दी बेल्ट में गोवा कि इमेज सही नहीं है। गोवा को हिन्दी बेल्ट के लोग बस मैज-मस्ती की जगह मानते हैं और जबकि यह सच नहीं है। गोवा हृदय से एक गांव है।

मारियो जैसी हस्ती से यह सब सुनकर मैंने तय किया कि मैं गोवा पर हिन्दी उपन्यास लिखूँगा। मैं शोध के लिये गोवा के अनेक गावों में घूमा और मुझे गोवा की एक अलग तस्वीर मिली। धान के खेत, काजू और काफि के बगान को देख मैंने महसूस किया कि यहि है असल गोवा। पर इसके अलावा गोवा में और बहुत सुख-दुख है। गोवा पर केन्द्रित यह उपन्यास 'राजा मोमो और पीली बुलबुल' 500 पृष्ठों में भारत के सबसे छोटे प्रान्त गोवा की बड़ी कथा कहता है।

Remo: The Autobiography of Remo Fernandes

When he started out as a relatively unknown artist in the 1970s, Remo would record his first albums in his home studio and distribute them around Goa on his yellow scooter. But soon, he was to become a national craze, with blockbuster hits to his credit in English and Hindi pop, and in film music as well. His stage performances were sensational and brought his incredible musical talent to the fore.

REMO is an extraordinary memoir. It is the story of a rich and full life - filled with professional highs and lows as well as personal triumphs and tragedies. Remo takes the reader along on a rollercoaster ride through his growing-up years, his travels, his musical journey, and his many adventures...

Written with great zest, warmth and humour, and complete with hundreds of photographs and sketches from Remo's personal collection, this is a book that is a thrill and a joy to read.

The book was recently launched in Goa.

Here Remo Fernandes would be in conversation with Sajla Chawla.

Speakers: Siddhartha Gigoo

Stories of exile – about the home to which one is unable to return, the family, friends, language, and the culture lost. In this session, Kanchana Banerjee would be in conversation with the award-winning writer, Siddhartha Gigoo, who will discuss how writers and poets, and the next generation of exiles rediscover, revisit the troubled lands, trying to make sense of the traumatic past and present through their work.

04.00 pm - 05.00 pm

Ek Chatur Naar

Humour in Writing by Indian Women

Speakers: Kiran Manral, Venita Coelho, Jerry Pinto and Savia Viegas

Moderated by Koral Dasgupta

There is a growing presence of humour in Indian writing by women writers who seem intent on breaking out of the prison of typecast representations of the Indian woman. Their works investigate the intersections of sexuality, gender and class/caste, which they seem to perceive as absurd social constructs. The writings present women who transgress tyrannically imposed boundaries, while reflecting on their action with humour and irony. Irony, satire and parody are deployed to raise issues that are generally considered uncomfortable. The body features as a trope for subversion; genre appropriation and the uncovering of patriarchal texts are used to generate humour. This session will discuss the devices and tactics used by Indian women writers to create humour.

05.00 pm - 06.30 pm

Jaane Kahan Gaye Woh Din

Reminiscing the Journey of Hindi Film Music Through the Decades

Speakers: Gautam Chintamani, Manoj Rajan and and Pradip Routray

Moderated by Shankar Iyer and Balaji, Co-Founders, Nostalgiaana

In nearly a hundred years of film songs, musical styles have changed, compositions varied widely and many gifted singers emerged. But one thing remained constant: films songs could be loved and cherished independently of film and, indeed, many of the best first appeared in forgotten B-grade films. The period from about 1939 to 1959 is known as the Golden Era of film music, when melody was king. There were scores of songs – given that several hundred films were being released every week, with the mandatory minimum of eight songs per film, and in one case, 42 songs in a single film. In the pre-VHS and DVD eras, it was not unusual for people with little economic means to sell a pint of blood just to be able to see a film again and, more often than not, just for one song sequence. With the mushrooming of satellite TV channels, the plain 'listening' concept about music is fast becoming redundant and it has been replaced by a 'watch and listen' concept. Titillating videos with skimpily clad girls prancing around have thus become the bywords for successful promotion of music. Has video content become much more important than audio content and are most songs are being tailored to suit that requirement? The panel takes us back into the era when lyrics, music and voices reigned supreme, and discusses if the youth would ever be able to relate to that era?

06.30 pm - 07.30 pm

Sing, Dance and Pray – The Inspirational Story of Srila Prabhupada by Hindol Sengupta

When A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Srila Prabhupada entered the port of New York City on 17 September 1965, few Americans took notice – but he was not merely another immigrant. He was on a mission to introduce ancient teachings of Vedic India to mainstream America. Before Srila Prabhupada passed away at the age of eighty-one on 14 November 1977, his mission was successful. He had founded the International Society for Krishna Consciousness (ISKCON), colloquially known as the 'Hare Krishna Movement', and saw it grow into a worldwide confederation of more than 100 temples, ashrams and cultural centres. This is the inspirational story of Srila Prabhupada. As the founder of ISKCON, he 'emerged as a major figure of Western counterculture, initiating thousands of young Americans'. He has been described as a charismatic leader who was successful in acquiring followers in many countries, including the United States, Europe and India. Srila Prabhupada's story is bound to put you on a path of self-realization.

This book by Hindol Sengupta will be launched by Dr. Bibek Debroy, Chairman, Economic Advisory Council to the Prime Minister.

Following the launch of the book, Hindol Sengupta will be in conversation with Dr. Bibek Debroy, His Grace Sri Chanchalapathi Dasa and Milee Ashwarya.

Please don't slam the door in my faceHidden Vaults of Archives and Information: Challenges for Film Historians

Speakers: Rahul Rawail, Amrit Gangar, Vinod Anupam and Asha Batra

Moderated by Shantanu Ray Chaudhuri

One of the greatest challenges in writing a biography (unofficially) of a cine star or documenting other aspects of cinema history, stems from finding accurate data on the individual. It is even more difficult to get data verified from available sources. One will find truth, half-truths, lies, over/understatements, eulogies, invectives and more. One could be running in circles, encountering unanswered calls, and even slammed doors as not many people are willing to talk, or talk openly. Here, the panel discusses the challenges faced in chronicling cinema.

My Name is Gauhar Jaan!: The Life and Times of a Musician by Vikram Sampath

The earliest recordings of Indian music are characterised by the high-pitched announcement, 'My name is Gauhar Jaan.' This declaration epitomised a milestone in the history of Indian classical music, one that would forever change its content, structure and style.

The musical scene in India at the turn of the 20th century witnessed tumultuous changes. The traditional custodians of the art form, the devadasis in the south and the nautch girls in the north, who had nurtured the art for centuries, became victims of the morality laws of the British government and the prudery of an 'enlightened' Indian elitist class. Gauhar Jaan (1873-1930), however, an eminent Hindustani vocalist, symbolises the resurgence of women musicians of her era.

Born Eileen Angelina Yeoward, an Armenian Christian who later converted to Islam, Gauhar Jaan was a naturally gifted musician with an outstanding repertoire. One of the earliest women artists to seize the opportunities that rose with the advent of recording technologies, hers was the first Indian voice to ever be recorded in 1902. She went on to cut close to 600 records, the most successful female musician of her time.

The Life and Times of a Musician tries to demystify the myth and mystery around one of the most enigmatic legends in Indian music history Gauhar Jaan. Vikram Sampath, in this remarkable book, brings forth little known details of this fascinating woman who was known for her melodious voice, her multi-lingual skills, poetic sensibility, irresistible personality and her extravagant lifestyle.

This book also describes the evolution of the Indian recording industry and its impact on the country's music, theatre and social life.

The Hindi Edition of the book will be launched at the festival.

Following the launch of the book, Vikram Sampath will be in conversation with Harini Srinivasan.

12.35 pm - 01.35 pm

Power Women

Feminine Perspectives in Literature, Cinema and Politics

Speakers: Kiran Manral, Saira Shah Halim and Koral Dasgupta

Moderated by Kanchana Banerjee

The question of women remains a central concern in the cinematic, literary and political imagination of Indian consciousness and socio political discourse on gender identity. As Indian society, culture, and economy undergo transformations, representation of women within the grand masculine narrative of nation, and also powerfully symptomatic of the projected imagination of her contribution and potentials in the nation's future, is also going through change. Because of this churn, often, representation of women and female identity becomes a contested site where national political exigencies, globalizing market consumerism, and renegotiation of female gender identity intersect. Cinema, literature and to an extent, political discourse continues amplifying the voices of women and marginalised communities using tools of art, media, culture, technology and community. This session will discuss the changing feminine perspectives in literature, cinema and politics and its impact on gender equality.

01.40 pm - 02.40 pm

Literature as Translation/Translation as Literature

The Visibilisation of Literature through Translations

Speakers: Jerry Pinto, Ashok Maheshwari, Anant Vijay and Pradeep Champanerkar

Moderated by Radha Chakravarty

To have a sense of India culturally you need to know each other's cultures. Literature is an important aspect of this. Translations between Indian languages are crucial. We should be able to read each other's literature in our mother tongue. While literature in mother tongue may be much more earthy and real, much closer to the lives of the people it features, good translations can convey the original narrative, equally effectively. This session will discuss the importance of translation of literature.

02.45 pm - 03.35 pm

Unsung heroes

Mainstreaming the Marginalised

Speakers: Vikram Sampath, Gautam Chintamani, Sanjay Hedge and Anant Vijay

Moderated by Manoj Rajan

There has been a long-held perception that the left-of-centre ideology and their heroes have dominated India's intellectual space and discourse. The literature, and contribution of the others in areas of the economy, politics, culture, society and aesthetics, have remained largely marginalised. With a change in political scene in the country, their discourse is now getting a new vocabulary and gradually becoming mainstream. Lively, eloquent and provocative, this session will stimulate much thought, discussion and debate as it challenges the dogmas of the left and the extreme right and raises the key issues that engage India today.

03.40 pm - 4.40 pm

The Shrinking Screen

Digital and Streaming as the New Theatre of Cinema

Speakers: Dhritiman Chaterji, Rahul Rawail, Gajra Kottary and Sachin Chatte

Moderated by Shantanu Ray Chaudhuri

Film industries all over have been severely impacted by the pandemic with delayed schedules, uncertain theatrical release, and the rising influence of OTT. With the threat of the virus now a constant presence, this panel addresses the way forward for our cinemas, including what it means for stars, filmmakers as well daily wage earners whose stories tend to be forgotten.

04.45 pm - 05.15 pm

Satyajit Ray: The Man Who Knew Too Much by Barun Chanda

Satyajit Ray's Seemabaddha (1971), a stinging indictment of the corporate rat race, remains one of the iconic film-maker's most feted works. The second of his much-lauded Calcutta Trilogy, it starred debutant Barun Chanda, who won a special prize for his performance.

Now, fifty years later, Barun Chanda documents his experience of working in the film and being directed by Satyajit Ray, someone he describes as 'the man who knew too much'. The actor begins with an account of his first meeting with Ray for an interview on behalf of Junior Statesman which got off to the worst imaginable start as the Garrard, 5-inch spool recorder he had taken with him refused to play. He manages to salvage the situation and the interview is well-received. From thereon he becomes a part of Ray's 'magic circle' and his Sunday morning addas, acts in one scene (with his back to the camera) in Pratidwandi, before landing the lead in Seemabaddha.

In breezy anecdotal style, Barun Chanda provides an up-close and intimate account of the making of an Indian classic – from its casting to its release – the attention to detail Satyajit Ray brought to every aspect of the film, and the relationship between one of the world's greatest directors and an actor making his debut. But Satyajit Ray: The Man Who Knew Too Much is more than just an account of the making of a film.

The author also presents a detailed and informative study of the various avatars of Ray as a film-maker: his sense of script and ear for dialogue, his instinctive grasp of the nuances of music, his penchant for casting non-actors and ability to get the perfect face for a role, his genius in designing a film's title sequence. He also speculates on the kind of man Ray was and asks the dramatic question: was Ray a dictator or director? Insightful and informed by a rare understanding of the master's works, this is an invaluable addition to the corpus of work on Satyajit Ray.

After the launch of the book, Barun Chanda will be in conversation with Dhritiman Chaterji and Shantanu Ray Chaudhuri

05.15 pm - 5:45 pm

Closing Session

(Details of the Session have been circulated separately).

A CKNOWLEDGEMENT

A nation that invests in cultural development as much as it does in economic growth tends to be a happier nation. Economic power alone cannot make a nation a super power in the true sense of the word. Creative industry feeds into the country's soft power. The idea of Kumaon Literary Festival stems out of this very belief.

I am humbled by the support KLF has received. I thank our guests and speakers for their contribution in the development of KLF.

No festival of the scale we have planned is possible without the support of partners and patrons. Particularly, when it is not a commercial event, the support becomes not only important, but also, imperative. I thank each of our patrons, associates, and supporters. Without them we would have struggled.

A special thanks to our sponsors! Sparing funds for a literary event requires a generous heart and visionary decision-making.

No words can do justice to the contribution of the team of Indian Cinema Heritage Foundation - Aditi Parashar, Krishna Sharma, Sandeep Sawhney, Rahul Kumar and others, who have worked relentlessly and tirelessly around my unreasonable demands, expectations and whims not once letting me down.

My sincere thanks to Shri Pramod Sawant, the Hon'ble Chief Minister of Goa, for his support and good wishes!

I am grateful to Dr. Tariq Thomas, CEO, Entertainment Society of Goa, Mrs. Mrunal Niket Walke , General Manager, ESG, and their dedicated team at ESG, for their support and efforts in the making of this event.

Finally, I thank my wife Asha and my children Dev and Siya for bearing with my frequent absence and pre-occupation with my immensely demanding legal profession!
